Description
When viewing a table, using the browser refresh produces a resend/resubmit dialog. The only other way to refresh the displayed table is to navigate to another table then back to the original. A Refresh button (perhaps next to the "Empty table" button) or a Refresh icon would be very useful.

There is an Update button for some tables but it's unclear whether this means refresh the display or update the table

A refresh button would definitely be useful.

The current "Update" button updates the table from a remote source, like Bogons.
